Is learning Roblox development worth it?

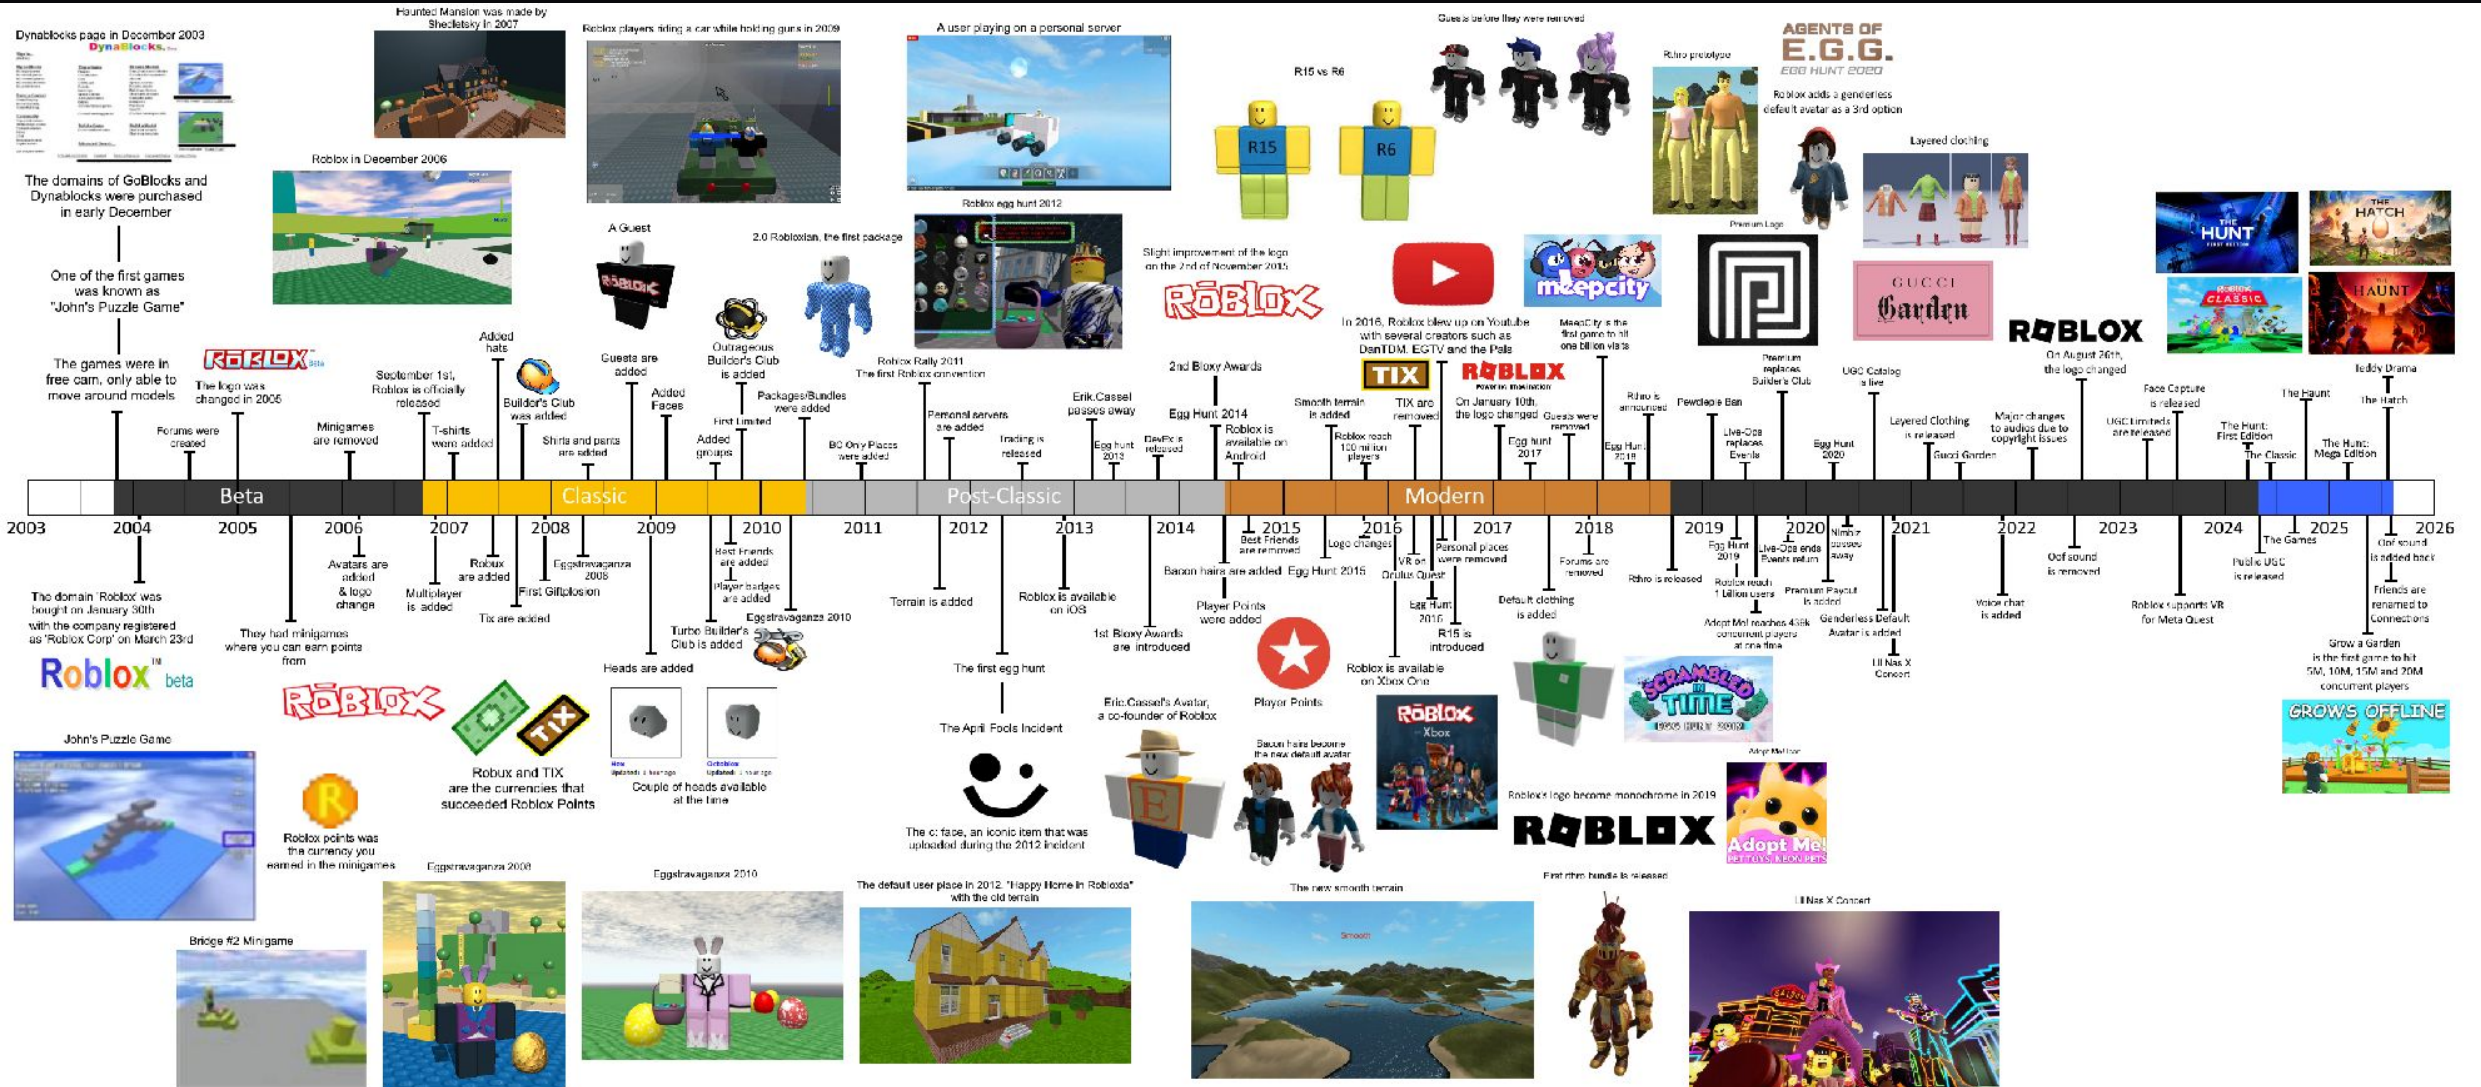

@TheNexusAvenge

"I think if I were to say something, it is to paraphrase a Roblox employee (forgot who) - like it or not, Roblox is trailblazing "safety" changes, and other platforms are going to copy. Discord is starting to do this. The problem is that Roblox is moving fast, causing panic and destruction and then only turning back later. Feedback channels aren't being used for these changes, and everyone is finding out at the same time. Remember when Roblox initially wanted you to be paying for Roblox Plus to have your games accessible to 15-and-under? Pepperidge Farm remembers. Roblox is huge with 20 years of history, so there are cases Roblox just won't support with how regulations are going, starting with Australia with their social media ban. Social games are harmed. Titanic games disappeared several weeks ago only to return 2 weeks ago due to the "tragic recent events" window changing from 100 to 150 years. From what I understand, the bad things are slowing down (but not over), and there is a good chance the rest of the industry + regulations are going to catch up. Roblox is a platform you can exist, but it is now way harder to get to a sustainable level. It also remains uncertain if your game can exist long-term. Titanic briefly didn't after being on the platform since 2008."
